

Thoughts on the ACS product:

Seaside Farm is going into its 3rd season using the ACS material. When we lost the practical use of methyl bromide we started to see an increase in soil born disease pressure. Using ACS in conjunction with a few other products we have seen that pressure drastically decline over the last 3 seasons. This product has had a direct, positive effect on our tomato and watermelon disease pressure and we intend to keep it as an integral part of disease management on Seaside Farm.
